M.S. in Information Technology

The Master of Science in Information Technology program is designed to provide students with a thorough knowledge of organizational information systems, application technologies, and systems infrastructure. It focuses on meeting the needs of users within an organizational and societal context through the selection, creation, application, integration, and administration of computing technologies and resources.

Students take five core courses covering database systems, platform technologies, telecommunication and networking, software development, and security technologies. Three courses are then taken in one of the following three concentrations of the student's choosing: application development, data analytics, or information assurance cybersecurity management. Students taking the no concentration option will need to take five elective courses. For students taking a concentration option, remaining courses are electives drawn from information technology, information security, or management information systems course offerings.

Admissions Requirements

- online application (apply.nova.edu)
- $50 application fee (nonrefundable)
- an earned bachelor's degree with a GPA of at least 2.5 from a regionally accredited institution with an appropriate major
- sealed official transcripts from all institutions attended
- a résumé

International students should visit cec.nova.edu/admissions for additional requirements.
